DUST EXPLOSION IN CUPOLA BLAMED

Million Bushels of Wheat,
Other Grains Lost
In Flames

CHICAGO, Dec. 23.—Two men were burned to death and several others were injured today as a six-story elevator crammed with grain was destroyed by flames.

Loss Is $1,000,000
The blaze ruined the elevator and probably a million bushels of wheat and other grains at a loss estimated at $1,000,000.

A dust explosion in the cupola atop the structure apparently touched off the grain and it became a flaming torch.

In less than an hour the blaze had swept from top to bottom menacing nearby structures. One man was carried, burned fatally, from the elevator and another body was thrown to a dock on the nearby Chicago river by an explosion.

Five tugs and motor apparatus brought by a half dozen special alarms poured a tremendous volume of water into the burning building from a snarl of hose lines but their fight seemed to be useless. The two tugs had to move to safer locations when the west wall of the elevator threatened to collapse.

Heard Explosion
Michael Boyle, bridge tender at the nearby Damen ave. bridge, said he heard an explosion near the top of the elevator about 9:30 a. m. Flames burst out spontaneously, and Boyle said he saw two men slide down ropes outside the burning structure.

The firemen worked in a murky, drizzling rain, pouring water from a myriad of hose into the seething grain.

Three Injured, Two Arrested In Crash

ASHLAND, Dec. 23.—Three seriously injured women are in a local hospital and two Ashland men face intoxication charges following an automobile accident east of here today.

The injured are Mrs. Gladys Coats and Vera Knaub, both of Ashland, and Golda Brinker of West Salem. L. L. Burns, driver of the car which Sheriff H. F. Wallett said collided with an Akron truck, is charged with driving while under the influence of alcohol and his companion, Boyd Luke, is charged with intoxication.

The truck drivers, Ted Flynn and Clarence Butcher, both of Akron, escaped serious injury.

Heroic Boy Saves Life of Playmate

CLEVELAND, Dec. 23.—Albert Vismackas, 11, owed his life today to the heroism of John Akellis 13, who risked his life, crawling on thin ice on Lake Erie, to rescue Albert who had fallen in.

The boys were playing on the ice yesterday when Albert broke through and shouted for help. He was nearly exhausted keeping his head above the water when John reached him and helped him climb out.

"Baby" Film Stars at Charity Fete

Yuletide's traditional cornucopia of good cheer overflowed, splashing music and merriment, wit and humor, drama and pageantry upon the thousands of spectators at the annual benefit for the Christmas Dinner Fund in the Civic Auditorium, Los Angeles. Here are two of the many film notables who attended the event. At left is Ginger Rogers, Wampas starlet, being generous with a huge bowl of doughnuts to Mary Carlisle, another of the new crop of stars.

Cage Carnival, Yule Treat For Tots Enliven Week-End

Three Games For Charity Tonight at High School;
Children at Elks' Home Tomorrow

Salem Associated Charities, organized to spread Christmas cheer in the homes of the community's needy, will benefit from an ultra-attractive basketball carnival, featuring three games, at the high school gymnasium tonight.

A large gathering of fans is expected at the event, three Salem teams being booked to oppose a trio of powerful visiting aggregations. Salem all-star basketballers, organized especially for the charity performance, will clash with the Canton Clowns, a troupe of entertaining hardwood stars, in the main contest at 9:15. The game is scheduled for this hour for the benefit of holiday shoppers who will be unable to attend preliminary contests.

Bringing Entertainers
The Clowns will bring with them two noted entertainers, Johnnie Holman and "Mutt" Stahler, to amuse fans from the sidelines. All of the visiting basketballers will be attired in clown outfits. They are noted both for ball-playing and entertaining talents.

Salem Pennziz Merchants, a girls' team recognized among the best in the district, will oppose Youngstown A. C. maidens in the semi-final clash at 8:15 while Joe Kelley's Trojans, midwest cage combine, tackle the Youngstown Columbian Stars in the first game at 7:15.

George Earley and John Sanders will referee with Evan Jenkins as official scorer. Admission prices have been reduced to 25 cents for adults and 10 cents for youngsters. A noisy throng of children, hundreds of them, "rode into the face of death" with Bob Steele in a western thriller, laughed and screamed to antics of youngsters in an "Our Gang" comedy, and made rafters tremble with their young voices in song at the Grand theater this morning.

The youngsters were guests of N. I. and H. L. Walken, owners of the Grand and State, at the theater party extended annually to Salem's kiddies. Employees of the playhouse contributed their services.

Many of the kiddies were seeing their first show in months where fathers and mothers have been unable to spare the money to send them to a theater. A comedy, cartoon, screen song and a feature western picture, "Son of Oklahoma" were shown.

Tomorrow afternoon at the home of Salem lodge No. 305, B. P. O. Elks, children of needy families will be guests at another function held to remind them of the Christmas season. Santa Claus has promised to be present in person to distribute gifts of toys and candy.

Invitations have been sent out by the Salem Associated Charities, sponsor of the event.

Infirmary Full, Doors Are Closed

LISBON, Dec. 23.—On account of the overcrowded condition of the county home, Supt. John P. Neill today announced that no more cases would be received for care at that institution until the pressure has been relieved. The current registration shows 121 men and 44 women or about 65 above normal.

Every building is crowded, and it is impossible to receive others until some now being cared for leave the institution," Neill declared.

Ohioan Killed In Crash On Birthday

MANSFIELD, Dec. 3.—Willard Lindsey, 31, of Crestline, an electrician, died in a hospital here today—his birthday.

Lindsey was injured last night when his automobile struck a railroad underpass abutment as he was driving from Mansfield.

DELAY ON BEER LOOMS AS BILL STIRS SENATE

Bingham Ready to Act,
But Results Depend
On Quorum

DEMOCRATS PLAN TO DELAY ACTION

Committee Routine, They Agree, Would Be Best Strategy

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—The senate refused to take up beer legislation today.

It rejected a move by Senator Bingham (R., Conn.) aimed to get immediate consideration for the 3.2 beer bill passed by the house.

The vote was 48 against, 23 in taking up the bill.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—The senate became involved in the beer issue today but indications were that a move for immediate consideration of the Collier 3.2 bill would be beaten.

Only two days after the house had passed the measure by a 63-vote majority, Senator Bingham (R., Conn.), was ready to call it up, but his success depended entirely upon a quorum.

Many Have Left

Even should one be present—and many senators already have left the capital for the Christmas holidays—the Democrats were expected to vote against immediate consideration of the bill which legalizes a brew of 3.2 per cent alcoholic content.

They agreed in conference late yesterday that the best strategy to insure its passage would be to send it through the usual committee routine. They also agreed to act on it independently of other tax legislation, a decision which virtually closed the door to the possibility of adding a sales tax or other revenue legislation as a rider.

A motion to call up the bill today would not be debatable, and would force an immediate vote on consideration provided a quorum attends. Bingham issued a call for all beer advocates to be on hand. Indications were, however, that action would be delayed until after the Christmas holidays.

Plan Study of Measure
Chairman Norris of the judiciary committee announced his group would meet Monday to begin a study of the Collier measure, but it seemed unlikely that a quorum of the committee would be present then.

Senator Borah of Idaho, a leading prohibitionist, who yesterday attacked the bill's constitutionality, saying "we are betraying the constitution for thirty pieces of silver," is a member of the committee.

La Rue Opera House Destroyed by Fire

MARION, Dec. 23.—The opera house at La Rue, a village in western Marion county, was destroyed by fire early today. Damage was estimated at $10,000 by firemen.

Starting, supposedly from defective wiring under the stage, the blaze soon got beyond control and additional fire apparatus was summoned from Greencamp, Marion and Kenton. After a four hour fight, the flames were brought under control.

Several adjoining buildings, one housing an automobile sales room, which was soon to have opened, S. H. H. barber shop and the Stahl-Bailey hardware store were damaged slightly.

Directors of Fair Unit To Organize

LISBON, Dec. 22.—Directors of the Columbiana County Agricultural society, sponsors of the annual county fair here, will meet next week for the purpose of organizing. Department managers will be selected at this session, and preliminary discussion will follow relative to the 1933 county fair. H. E. Marsden will be re-elected secretary of the fair board at this session.

Wins His Degree

COLUMBUS, O., Dec. 23.—Go to bed and stay there if you have a chilly feeling.

That's the advice of Dr. H. G. Southard, state director of health, who is branding his efforts toward eradication of the mild epidemic of influenza prevalent in Ohio.

Thus far, the director said, 4,235 cases have been reported officially. This means there are many other victims since the department receives reports only on those cases given medical attention.

The total number, however, is small compared to the cases

(By Associated Press)
ST. LOUIS, Dec. 23.—Mildred (Babe) Didrikson announced here today that the reinstatement action of the Southern A. A. U. will not affect her decision to turn professional. "I do not in the least regret the decision I have made," she said in a statement issued to the press as she boarded a Chicago bound train.

Miss Didrikson refused to tell her destination and in reply to questions merely repeated "I am going west." She was accompanied by her sister, Miss Esther Didrikson.

DEBATE BUDGET PROBLEM AGAIN

County Officials Gather In Courthouse At Lisbon Today

Municipal, township and village officials gather in No. 2 courtroom, Lisbon, today for their second meeting in which they plan to arrange budgets to be presented to the Ohio relief commission in requests for funds for welfare work among the county's unemployed.

Salem was not represented at the meeting. Service Director Clyde R. Reich and Auditor Karl L. Webster holding a conference this morning concerning the amount of money to be requested for use in Salem.

Applications to be filled out at the Lisbon meeting were received only this morning by the Salem officials, forcing a delay in the preparation of their budget.

John M. Kerr, chairman of the board of county commissioners, presided at the meeting in Lisbon.

GOVERNOR OBJECTS TO FIXED POLICIES

Spurns "An Apparent Joint Responsibility";
President Declares No Commitments
Will Be Made for Next Administration

(By Associated Press)
PARIS, Dec. 23.—Premier Paul-Boncour suddenly and dramatically virtually launched debt negotiations with America today by personally calling upon United States Ambassador Edge at the Embassy.

He asked that Mr. Edge take the matter up with Washington so that France may help in reaching a solution of the debts question.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.—The exchange of views between President Hoover and Governor Roosevelt on forthright action to meet international problems found them standing apart today, not only on methods but on the question of cooperation as well.

Within a few hours after Mr. Hoover had said that his successor-elect "considers that it is undesirable for him to assent to my suggestions for cooperative action," the governor in Albany expressed regret and surprise at the statement and asserted he had made a definite suggestion which he termed a "definite offer of cooperation."

Issues Statement

Mr. Roosevelt's statement last night said:

MRS. RUTH HOGAN IS FOUND DEAD

Widow of Dr. E. Y. Hogan
Succumbs Suddenly
At Home

The body of Mrs. Ruth Anna Hogan, 60, widow of Dr. E. Y. Hogan, was found shortly before noon on the floor of a downstairs room at her home, East State st., where she had fallen, by Dr. O. A. Rhodes, who had called to visit her. Death is believed due to a heart attack although a coroner's inquest will be held.

Mrs. Hogan had been ill for sometime and Dr. Rhodes had been calling on her. He attempted to reach her this morning but, failing, obtained a key and unlocked the door himself.

Dr. Hogan, here for approximately 20 years, died about two years ago.

In addition to her mother, Mrs. Rachel Cobbs, Westville, she leaves three sisters: Miss Myra E. Cobbs, San Francisco, Cal.; Mrs. Howard Cameron, and Mrs. Mabel Champion Westville, two brothers, W. E. Cobbs of Alliance and Homer Cobbs of Sebring.

Funeral service will be held at 2:30 p. m. Sunday at the Arbaugh Funeral home in charge of Rev. R. D. Walter, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Burial will be in the Dugan cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home from 7 to 9 p. m. Saturday.

FINGERPRINTS ARE SOLE CLUE

Bauknecht and Lafferty Hold Parley With
Investigators

Unable to obtain a trace of passengers in the mysterious automobile seen near the courthouse at Lisbon, county authorities today turned to finger prints obtained from safes and desks in offices as their main hope for the solution of the early Thursday morning.

Prosecutor John E. Bauknecht and his assistant, George Lafferty Friday conferred with Youngstown fingerprint experts concerning the outcome of their investigations but reported today that few, if any, new developments had been uncovered.

Attempts to locate the automobile or its passengers, seen parked near the courthouse between 3 and 4 a. m., the hour generally fixed for the burglary, have been fruitless, officials reported.

Many finger prints of the burglars were obtained from safes, desks and drawers in offices looted during the robbery. They are being developed in Youngstown by experts and attempts will be made to compare them with records of prints of known criminals and safe bandits on file in various Ohio courts.

The burglars obtained $318 in money, machine gun, rifle and revolver in the robbery.

Schools Close

LISBON, Dec. 23.—Rural schools in this county closed for the holidays today. They will reopen Jan. 3, it was announced by County Supt. of Schools H. C. Leonard.

Schools here including the Lisbon high school also close today, and will resume sessions Jan. 3.

White House statement issued this afternoon. It is a pity not only for this country, but for the solution of world problems that any statement or information should be given that I consider it undesirable to assent to cooperative action on foreign problems.

"I have made to the president the definite suggestion that he select his representatives to make preliminary studies. I have asked to be kept advised as to the progress of these preliminaries. I have offered to consult with the president freely between now and March 4.

"I hope that this practical program and definite offer of cooperation will be accepted."

In making public the exchange of telegrams between the chief executive and president-elect, and disclosing that Mr. Hoover had abandoned his plan of appointing a commission to study war debts, disarmament and economic problems, White House attaches also released this statement by the president:

Hoover's Statement

"Gov. Roosevelt considers that it is undesirable for him to assent to my suggestions for cooperative action on the foreign problems outlined in my recent message to congress. I will respect his wishes.

"Situations will no doubt develop and will be dealt with by the administration as they arise, but of course no commitments will be made for the next administration."

In the communications Gov. Roosevelt indicated his desire to avoid fixed policies in any preliminary examinations made in the international field, leaving him a free hand to proceed in his own manner after his inauguration. He said he could not accept "an apparent joint responsibility" for creation of a commission.

With the president's abandonment of his plan for such a bipartisan commission, indications were that the problems of war debts, disarmament and world economies would be handed on to the incoming administration in much their present form.

Pentecost Church To Present Program

The first annual Christmas service and entertainment of the Salem Pentecost church will be held in the church auditorium at 8 tonight.

Christmas cantatas and other vocal selections, together with instrumental music, will feature the program.

Participating in the event will be Miss Anna Schenker and H. Snodgrass, leaders; Mary Wagner, Lena Snodgrass, Pearl Anderson, Simon Wagner, William Watkins, Ruth Smith, Robert Schuster.

Mrs. J. Schenger, Audrey Snodgrass, Betty Schuster, Elizabeth Conner, Paul Smith of New Waterford, Mary Ella Smith, Andrew Conner and Mildred Schuster.

Toys will be distributed to the children.

Won't Admit It

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—This technocracy thing, we don't know if it's a disease or a theory.

It may go out as fast as Esquimo pies, or miniature golf courses. But people right now are in a mood to grab at anything. They are sure of one thing and that is that the old orthodox political way of running everything and world economies. There is not a man in the whole world today that people feel like actually knows what's the matter. If there was, he would be appointed dictator unanimously by the whole world.

Our "big men" won't admit they don't know. They just keep on hoping they can "bull" their way through. The case has simply got too big for the doctors, but the doctors haven't got big enough to admit it.

Yours,
Will Rogers

RAIL WAGE COMPROMISE

The close of the rail wage conference at Chicago left labor and management in the same approximate positions they occupied when negotiations were started almost a fortnight before. Labor, despite its pronouncements, expected nothing better than continuance of the 10 per cent reduction from its existing wage scale. Management, which also made claims beyond its power to realize, could not have expected railroad labor to take another cut.

Neither side can claim victory,
although on a basis of wage scales
labor's theoretical 10 per cent cut represents what is probably a better than average bargain. However, it was shown at the conference that the actual loss of wages
is closer to a 20 per cent average,
due to layoffs and part-time employment. The cheering thing about the agreement reached is that it represents a compromise, not a victory. Had either side possessed the power to win victory according to its views there would have been harm inflicted on the other side.

Of greater significance than the details of the agreement, which runs three months longer than management's favored period and three months short of the period
asked by labor, is the fact that it is another and an outstanding example of what has become the modern way of settling issues between management and labor. It has become so common, as a matter of fact, that it is easy to lose sight of the bitter controversies of
the past.

Men have not settled wage questions around a conference table always. There have been times—
many times—when management
and labor were opposing groups of irreconcilables, who would rather fight to the death than become parties to a compromise. No regret is felt for the gradual disappearance of that method, which tended constantly to upset the balance of adjustment between employer and workman.

There is no disgrace in stalling
for time. Railroad labor does not know what the future holds and neither does management. By maintaining the status of the last year for nine more months they have thrust the subject of wage policy into the future, where it belongs in this period of uncertainty.

MORAL DUTY

New Jersey's Governor Moore
has shown deep distrust of the fair
state of Georgia by refusal to send Robert E. Burns back to it for completion of a sentence on a chain gang. Georgia has every right a state could have to be in-ignant.

In the final arguments on the over-publicized case there can be found fair statements of both sides.
Particularly impressive was a contentment of Georgia's legal representative that if the mistreatment Burns claims is common in chain gangs were a fact thousands of people in the state, with a more direct interest than the fugitive has,
would "rise up in wrath for the protection of their own flesh and blood." Georgia's side of the case has not been given the attention it deserves, perhaps.

It is assumed that Governor
Moore's decision to make Burns safe in the state of New Jersey was based on what he conceived to be his moral duty. His conscience told him that he would be doing an injustice if he, a citizen and resident of New Jersey, were to decide to give up Burns to the Georgia authorities. He had heard the case.
Like thousands of others he was convinced that Burns was not an habitual criminal. Even the storekeeper whom the man had robbed

caused him to be sentenced to hard nurses a forlorn hope that eventually his bravure will bear fruit. He is heartened by the fact that, 20

years ago, he fathered a campaign
to teach writers there are two ba-converts. One in Hindustan.

Five years ago, the cartoonist, H.
T. Webster was afflicted with the occupational malady, writer's cramp, a numbness in his drawing
arm. For a time, it presaged abandonment of his cartoon career. Instead, he learned as everybody
knows, to draw with his left hand
and in eight months was as efficient as ever. While he could draw with one hand, he could write with the other. So he began to master this difficult, and today writes a more distasteful hand than ever before.

As governor of New Jersey, however Mr. Moore was obliged to take full account of his official responsibility. Georgia was asking the return of one of its prisoners. It was willing to take the responsibility of facing public opinion. As a matter of official courtesy alone,
Governor Moore's duty to give up Burns was clear. Georgia's principles of penology were not his business.

He has chosen to make them his business, however, insofar as he can be said to have criticized them
tacitly by his refusal to allow a Georgia prisoner to be taken out of New Jersey. It will be surprising if there are not heard many repercussions from Governor
Moore's surrender to moral duty.

Usage of Antiseptics

Advertisements in street cars,
magazines and newspapers have made familiar to everyone the emphasis on the use of antiseptics. Halitosis, perhaps no one but the afflicted person
truly realizes the handicap of this trouble.

The word "halitosis" means bad breath. It is merely a symptom.

Contrary to the common belief, halitosis is not a disease of the teeth and gums. Halitosis can sometimes be traced to an infected tooth or diseased gums. But there are other causes for bad breath and many times they are overlooked by the sufferer in his eagerness for cure.
Do not be misled and expect halitosis
to be cured, even if it is improved, by the vigorous use of a mouth wash or toothpaste.

Indicates Trouble Elsewhere

The presence of halitosis is a sign of a disturbance somewhere in the body. This may be in the mouth or it may be in one distant part of the body.

Diseased and infected tonsils are a frequent cause of halitosis. When the tonsils are enlarged and pus infected, they give off a foul odor.
The cure of the bad breath and other more serious symptoms is made possible by removal of the diseased tonsils.

Halitosis may be due to an obstinate catarrhal condition which must be relieved before the breath can become sweet.

I am confident that many cases
of halitosis can be traced to failure
of elimination and disturbed digestion. When there is any tendency to constipation, there is an accumulation of poisonous substances within the body.

Many cases of bad breath have been traced to intestinal troubles.
This can be corrected by change of diet, exercise and the taking of plenty of water and fresh air.
Usually there is too little "roughage" in the diet. The necessary roughage is supplied by eating plenty of fresh fruits and vegetables. All food should be slowly and carefully chewed. Drink at least six to eight glasses of water daily.

Seek the Inner Cause

In what I have said, I do not mean to imply that neglect of the teeth and gums will not cause halitosis. Decayed teeth permit the accumulation of food particles and germs. When this condition is overlooked, there is sure to be an unpleasant odor. Failure to brush the teeth and dental plate work is another factor.

Make a check-up of your teeth
with an X-ray picture. Then be governed accordingly. Of course all decayed teeth should be removed or the cavities properly filled.

As you see there are many causes for halitosis. The cure is simple if the cause is known. Mouth washes and tooth pastes are of value as cleansing agents. But too much faith must not be put in these mild antiseptics.

Since halitosis may be the first sign of some serious disturbance, I am glad so much is said about this symptom. Our advertising friends are doing what is really an important thing in the way of public health education. But my plea is that the victim of halitosis shall not be satisfied merely to cover up
the outward sign of some inward
trouble.

BEER
TOO ENTHUSIASTIC
WHAT PRICE STATUES?

—By Arthur Brisbane

(Copyright, 1932 By King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

MIAMI, FLA.—By 230 to 165, the House of Representatives says, "The people must have beer," and they probably will get it. The Senate will take the hint and remember the vote.

This intelligent nation, which for many years past has been on a whisky, gin and drug basis, will be hereafter on a legal beer basis,
modified by whisky, gin and drug bootlegging.

The great vineyards of California,
Ohio, New York and other states,
will continue to be run on a boot-
leg basis, with compressed grapes,
grape juice, sold to become badly
made wine later on.

ROBERT ELLIOTT BURNS,
committing a robbery in the state of Georgia, was put to work on the chain gang. He did not like it, escaped twice and a book and moving picture have been prepared narrating his alleged sufferings, called "I Am a Fugitive From the Chain
Gang."

In addition to his holdup in Georgia, it appears that Mr.
Burns is also a fugitive from
New York, accused of forgery.
Georgia wants him back to finish
his sentence. Governor Moore of New Jersey refuses extradition and the "fugitive
from the chain gang" is safe
and free in New Jersey.

AFTER his release the crowd
pushed and struggled to congratulate him. All very pretty, but making a hero of a criminal should not be overdone. Those who say, "In his holdup he got less than $5,"
should remember that he got all his victim had. Had the victim had $5,
he would have taken that, and, presumably, would have been $4.95
worth more cheerful.

In addition this particular criminal, like thousands of others at large in this country, would doubtless have murdered the man held up had he resisted. It isn't wise to be too enthusiastic or fearful about a young gentleman who, after being indicted for forgery, goes out on the highway to rob, with the possibility of murder.

IT IS the opinion of this writer it would be wholesome thing to let Mr. Burns go back to Georgia, and learn that not everybody in the United States
sympathizes with holdup men,
gangsters, counterfeiters and
potential murderers.

Georgia may be annoyed by exaggerated accounts of her prison cruelties, but she has one comfort that other states haven't, holdups in Georgia are comparatively few, and gangsters avoid that state. They don't like people that take crime seriously.

PROFESSOR Apostolos Arvan-topoulos, from Athens, who ought to know about art, says a statue in New York's Metropolitan museum, 2,000 years old, worth $900,000 "in good times," was smuggled out of Greece "in a huge wooden crate,
with the connivance of high authorities."

The museum answers: "We bought it from a legitimate dealer
for a good price. If Greek high authorities connived in breaking their own laws, that is not our responsibility."

PROFESSOR ARVANITOPPOU-LOS' suggestion that the statue is worth $900,000 is exaggerated. Few statues are "worth" any such sum.
The few include Michelangelo's
"Moses," the "Venus Di Milo," and
the "Winged Victory," the first in Rome, the last two in the Louvre,
in Paris. Such statues have no
price. Mussolini wouldn't sell Mich-elangelo's "Moses" for enough to build 10 battleships. And France would laugh if you offered $100,000-600 each for the "Venus Di Milo"
and the "Winged Victory."

MRS. CHARLES R. FRAZIER
of Jacksonville, Fla., convinced that her husband's stenographer was breaking up the Frazier home, waited for the stenographer and shot her dead
with five bullets.

Mr. Frazier at once had a physical breakdown and has since had a second breakdown.
According to his wife, he had taken away the three youngest of their five children, and wrote: "If you let me get a divorce I will bring the children back." Had he not written that letter he might not have had the breakdowns and the stenographer might not have been murdered.

HOW do you explain the fact that when a primitive man finds that his wife is false he kills the wife, whereas a woman, when her husband is false, kills the other woman? The explanation is simple without any help from Freud. The wife through the ages has killed
the other woman, saving the husband, because her children might need him. The husband kills the false wife, because it is easy to get at her, and sometimes dangerous
to attempt to kill the other man.

CHILDREN in Sunday school are taught that our acts affect others
and spread far out, like ripples on the water when a stone is thrown into a pond.

There are such ripples in the Frazier killing case. Mrs. Murrell, mother of the murdered stenographer, accompanied by the stenographer's former husband, attended the funeral. Driving back their automobile collided with that of Martin Padgett, killing him instantly.

five bullets, indirectly, killed Padgett, of whom she had never heard.

The Friendship Sunday school class of the Methodist church was entertained Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. G. H. McDonald, with Mrs. G. R. Morton, Mrs. Bert Courtney, associate hostesses. There were 37 present with Mrs. L. E. Painter of Hamilton, Pa., a guest. The regular business was transacted and officers elected as follows: President, Mrs. Leonard Redman; vice president, Mrs. J. B. Amstutz; secretary, Miss Gladys Grise; assistant secretary, Miss Dolly Somerville; treasurer, Mrs. Kenneth Heston.

Gifts Exchanged

Gifts were exchanged and arrangements made to fill a basket for a needy family. Lunch was served by the hostesses. The house was decorated in keeping with the Christmas season. Gifts were brought for the small daughter of a member of the class who underwent an operation recently. The hostesses next time will be Mrs. George Heston, Mrs. Kenneth Heston and Mrs. Glenn Slagle.

Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Steer and daughter entertained Tuesday evening in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin K. Whiteleather of Paris, France. Thirty-two former schoolmates were present from Chicago, Cleveland, Canton, Alliance, Sebring and Damascus. The evening was spent in reminiscences of school days, and with games. A lunch was served by Mr. and Mrs. Steer assisted by Misses Abbie Steer, Adrienne Spahn and Dorothy Patton.

Class Entertained

The Sunday school class of the Friends church taught by Miss Ethel Ladd was entertained Tuesday evening by Miss Anna Stratton, a member, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Crawford with 16 present. The evening was spent with games and exchange of gifts. A lunch was served.

Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Cobbs and daughter Mary entertained Wednesday evening at dinner for Joseph DeVille of Wheeling, W. Va., Mr. and Mrs. amon Cobbs of Warren, Dr. and Mrs. Lee Cobbs, Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Bennett of Salem, Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Bennett and family and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Ober of Winona, and Dr. and Mrs. P. F. Bennett of Alliance. During the evening Dr. Bennett showed pictures of Europe.

A party was held Wednesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Grise, honoring Mr. and Mrs. Melvin K. Whiteleather of Paris, France. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred Porter, Fountaintown; Misses Guyer and Cleveland of Warren; Mrs. Nubbaum, son and daughter of Salem; Mrs. Rena Whiteleather of North Georgetown; Lyman Whiteleather of Salem; Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Strawn and Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Strawn.

Mrs. Long Hostess

Mrs. C. G. Long entertained nine boys after school Tuesday observing the tenth birthday of her son, David. Games were enjoyed and a lunch served. Favors in keeping with the holiday season were given. David received several gifts.

C. E. Hobson entertained the Sunday school class of which he is teacher, Monday evening with ten boys present. Most of the evening was spent in coasting. Instead of the usual gift exchange, gifts were brought for a needy family. Refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Melvin K. Whiteleather attended a dinner at Cleveland Thursday evening. Mr. and Mrs. James Balfour and son were called to Youngstown Tuesday by the death of Mrs. Thomas Beatty.

Mrs. Emily Waxbom and daughter, Miss Doris Kerr of Columbus are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Emanuel Grise and Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Strawn.

W. K. Talbot has returned from a visit to Rev. and Mrs. C. R. McPherson and family of Wilmore, Ky. Miss Mary Cobbs of Washington, D. C. is spending the holidays with her parents, Dr. and Mrs. A. R. Cobbs.

COLUMBIANA

Dr. F. W. Trader gave a talk on "Cancer" at the Rotary club meeting. Dr. Trader's talk, illustrated with specimens, proved very interesting. He stated that there is no known cause for this dread disease in spite of the fact that the cause and effect have been under observation for 5000 years, but that it is believed if the cause is found, a remedy will also be discovered. Thus far, a number of the critical causes are listed, and that if discovered in time, many cases may be cured by surgery, as well as by X-ray and radium treatments.

Club Praised

The meeting will be on Tuesday evening, January 3, the regular meeting next week being omitted on account of the holiday season. President Holloway read extracts from the District Governor's monthly bulletin, in which the record and spirit of the Columbiana club were praised.

The Columbiana Kiwanis club met Monday in Knights of Pythias hall. Guests were Edgar F. Miller, High school principal, and Glenn McNeese, jeweler. Miller entertained with motion pictures depicting hunting and fishing in Canada, secured from the Canadian National Railways.

President Ray J. Miller announced a round-table meeting for next Monday's session, with reports from the club officers and a resume of the year's accomplishments by members of the club. The place of next week's meeting will be announced later.

Members of Pandora Rebekah lodge enjoyed the annual Christmas party Monday evening in O. O. F. hall following a brief lodge session. The entertainment consisting of accordion solos by Miss Alverda Eschenwein and readings by Joanne Haggerty and Irene Brinker, was in charge of the entertainment committee: Miss Effie Renkenberger, Mrs. E. E. Royer and Mrs. L. E. Haggerty. The gift exchange was handled by Curtis Stahl.

ANNUAL PARTY

Members of the Salem City hospital staff held their annual Christmas party Thursday evening at the Hannah E. Mullins home, East State st. With this group 15 children enjoyed the affair.

A large Christmas tree in the living room gave the home a Yuletide atmosphere.

Dr. R. T. Holzbach, in the role of Santa Claus, made each child happy with a gift and a popcorn ball.

A program arranged by the student nurses of the hospital included a play, "Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus." The group sang Christmas carols and Mrs. C. M. Leasure entertained with a vocal solo.

After this program Mr. and Mrs. Leo Rice, and six children, Columbus musicians, sang Christmas carols for the company.

Included in the guest list were: Mr. and Mrs. Frank Windle, Dr. and Mrs. Stanton Heck, Dr. and Mrs. Holzbach and son, Tom; Mrs. Viola Wilson, and Mrs. C. M. Leasure and children.

CHILDREN'S PARTY

Children in the beginners and primary departments of the Presbyterian Sunday school enjoyed their annual Christmas party Thursday afternoon at the church.

The party was in charge of Mrs.

Howard Chamberlain and Mrs. Floyd McKee, superintendent of the departments, and their assistants.

Two Christmas trees and other Yuletide decorations enhanced the room in which the party was held. Songs and recitations composed the program of entertainment. Lunch was served. Each child received a box of candy.

Mothers of the children were also guests for this occasion.

CHRISTMAS DINNER PARTY

J. A. McKee, who is in charge of the Salem office of the Prudential Life Insurance company, entertained the agents of the local office and their wives at a delightful dinner party Thursday evening at Two-Crest Inn, Salem-Canfield rd.

A "grab bag" furnished a lot of merriment. The hours were whiled away at dancing and cards.

CIRCLE 5

Circle 5 of the Methodist Episcopal church will meet Wednesday, December 28, at the church at 12:30 p. m. for luncheon.

Mrs. Minnie Fink Duck of Lisbon was a guest Thursday of Mrs. Maud L. Fink, West Fourth st. Last evening she left for Anna, Illinois, where she will spend the winter.

W. B. A. TO MEET

A "basket picnic" featured the social period at a meeting of the Women's Benefit association Thursday evening at the hall, North Broadway. Christmas gifts were exchanged. "Stunts" added interest.

The new officers will be installed in two weeks. Mrs. William Probert will be mistress of ceremonies.

E. W. Satterthwaite, Depot rd, left today for Richmond, Ind., to spend Christmas.

Beware of Colds NOW!

With Flu In the Air

Colds Are Doubly Dangerous

Colds—always treacherous—are doubly dangerous now, with flu reported in many sections. They lower body strength and pave the way for flu and all its serious complications. Heed even the slightest sniffle as a danger signal. It's no time to take chances. The safest course to follow is that outlined in Vicks Plan for better Control-of-Colds. In clinical tests last winter, Vicks Plan reduced the number and spread of colds by half!—cut their dangers and costs more than half! Full details of the plan are in each Vicks package. Briefly, it is this:

TO PREVENT MANY COLDS: At that first feeling of stuffiness or nasal irritation sniffle or sneeze—Nature's usual warning that a cold is coming on—use Vicks Nose & Throat Drops, the new aid in preventing colds. Vicks Drops aid Nature in throwing off the infection that threatens. They prevent development of many colds.

TO END A COLD SOONER: If a cold has developed or strikes without warning, vigorous measures are necessary. At bedtime, apply Vicks VapoRub. Its direct double action—continuing through the night—brings quicker relief. During the day, use the convenient Vicks Nose Drops every few hours as needed. They add to comfort—help shorten the cold.

Follow Vicks Plan for Better CONTROL of Colds

Young Man, Girl, Believed Victims of Murder
and Suicide

(By Associated Press)
WOODSFIELD, O., Dec. 23.—Apparently victims of unexplained murder and suicide, the bodies of a young man and a girl were found in an automobile near here last night.

Each with a bullet wound in the head, the victims were identified as Louis Hochaver, 24, of Lansing, G., and Miss Lillian M. Koonz, 20, of Wheeling, W. Va.
A murder-suicide verdict was given by Coroner Edward Fiest,
who said a revolver found in Hochaver's lap indicated he shot
the girl and then took his own life.

Prosecutor J. K. Sawyer, Jr., said
he believed a lovers' quarrel probably led to the tragedy.
Hochaver, a nephew of Anton Hochaver, Democratic commissioner-elect of Belmont county, left Wheeling with Miss Koonz yesterday afternoon, and they had driven
in an automobile about 100 miles.
The bodies slumped in the front seat of the car, were discovered by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Shell of Middlechurch, who investigated when they saw the car parked at the side of a country road, seven miles west
of Woodsfield.

SANTA CLAUS

*who dwells in the hearts
of little children*
Yes, there is a Santa Claus who dwells in the hearts of little children. Even though hard times and depression have curbed your earnings, hang up their stockings this year, that the legend may live and their childish wishes come true.
Those joyous impressions of earliest childhood subconsciously have a great bearing upon our adult lives. Delight the children—carry on the Wondrous Tale for them. It costs so little to make them happy—with the scores of "Christmas stocking goodies" you will find at your I.G.A. Store.

THEATER Attractions

"THE DEVIL IS DRIVING" with Edmund Lowe and Wynne Gibson in leading roles and an added attraction of the entire football game of the Notre Dame-Southern California game is the billed attraction today at the State theater.

Lowe plays the role of a good-natured, easy going, wise-cracker, who, when he discovers he needs a job, gets his brother-in-law to employ him as mechanic in a garage he manages. Lowe soon finds that the place houses a variety of enterprises not connected with the storage of automobiles.

First and foremost, it's a center for stolen autos—a place where the stolen cars are renovated so that they could never be recognized, and then resold.

It's also a "front" for a luxurious speakeasy, and on a penthouse atop the structure is the apartment in which the directing minds of the enterprise live in armed security.

It's only when his brother-in-law is murdered by the gang, and his little nephew is seriously injured by one of the stolen cars that Lowe is jarred out of his good nature.

"WILD HORSE MESA", Zane Grey's famous story is the feature Saturday and Sunday at the Grand theater.

Randolph Scott, rising newcomer, a "combination of Gary Cooper and Maurice Chevalier" is seen in the leading role. He was last seen here in "Hot Saturday".

Sally Blaine, Jim Thorpe, Lucille LaVerne and Fred Kohler are others in the cast.

The story centers around Scott who is engaged in the double task of attempting to capture a great white stallion which roams the Arizona mesa, and of blocking the attempts of a band of outlaws to capture the horses in their brutal traps.

The Stars Say:

For Saturday, Dec. 24

A particularly lively and pleasant as well as profitable day may be presaged from the prevailing planetary configurations. There is likely to be several pleasant surprises, especially in the realm of the social, domestic or romantic relations with developments of an unsuspected nature. But be on guard against some subtle or slanderous attack, expressing through writings or letters, and take pains not to be enmeshed in intrigue or sensational reports.

Those whose birthday it is may anticipate a lively and eventful year with much activity and initiative with consequent progress and profit.

A child born on this day may be active, resourceful and ambitious, but disposed to gain its ends by craft or intrigue.

Holds Sheriff In Sandusky Rum Row

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, Dec. 23.—In a sharply worded letter, Gov. George White today informed Sheriff John Parker of Erie county, that he was holding him responsible for conditions about the Soldier's and Sailor's home at Sandusky where liquor is allegedly being sold to inmates.

Gov. White said evidence was laid before him earlier in the week that vice and bootlegging was being carried on at Homeville, a village near the home, and that conditions were "a menace" to the morals of the state and a violation of the law.

Late last week, five members of the home were made ill from alleged poisonous liquor sold to them by residents of the village of Homeville.

The illness of the inmates coupled with an alleged statement by authorities that they were unable to wipe out the traffic, caused Senator Joseph N. Ackerman of Cleveland, to declare he would ask Gov. White to station a soldier at every door in Homeville to prevent sales of liquor and vice.

GOLF AND WRESTLING
BEST PAYING SPORTS

Although intercollegiate football and professional baseball generally are credited by the country's sports experts with most successfully combating the box-office hardships of 1932, a striking feature of The Associated Press poll today is the testimony to staid, made by two sports which have nothing in common—golf and professional wrestling.

"Golf seems to have survived the economic slump better than any other sport in the southeast," observes one critic, whose view is echoed in the east, middle west and far west by those who see the royal and ancient game now brought down to the level of the "ordinary pocketbook."

The depression is considered definitely to have brought about by book to public links golf, where the erstwhile member of an exclusive country club no longer able to pay high membership fees and with time on his hands is enjoying rubbing elbows or trading shots with the catch-as-catch-can player.

Sports editors of the east and middle west, while some contend it is a "racket," nevertheless assert wrestling has survived conditions and continued to profit, while boxing has slipped backward. They base this on the claim that "wrestlers have been smart enough to give the fans an exciting show for reasonable prices," that the grapplers are content to work often and on a percentage basis, and that they are better organized for business.

In the east, wrestling is ranked next to college football as the sport which has best reacted to conditions of the year. College football leads in the far west and south as well as east. Golf runs second to football in the south and far west where it is more of a year-around sport.

The rating of the sports' best surviving or re-acting to depression, based on votes in the Associated Press poll: College football 64; baseball 48; golf 35; professional wrestling 34; tennis, 14; professional hockey, 14; boxing 12; basketball and horse-racing 11 each; professional football 10.

Trojans Outclass Damascus Cagers

DENVER, Dec. 23.—Colorado basketball fans are looking forward to seeing their favorite game as it is played on the Pacific coast.

Stanford University's hoop team will play Colorado Teachers at Greeley on Dec. 26, and Colorado U. at Boulder on Dec. 27 and 28. The Indians will also meet Wyoming U. at Laramie on Jan. 4; Nebraska U. at Lincoln on Jan. 3; Utah U. at Logan on Dec. 23, and Kansas U. at Lawrence on Dec. 30 and 31.

Lloyd Waner Faster of Star Brother Duo; Paul Tells Why

(By International News Service) NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The dispute as to which of the Waner brothers is fastest was settled at the recent baseball meeting in New York when Paul Waner announced that as far as speed was concerned he didn't figure with brother Lloyd.

"Why the son-of-a-gun has been faster than me ever since we were kids," Paul declared. "We had a farm in Oklahoma and Lloyd and I were raising watermelons. Every day we'd go out and tend those melons. One of them was our pride. It was big and getting bigger and we had to exercise a lot of control not to open it up. But it wasn't quite ripe so we decided to wait."

"One morning we walked out to the patch and by golly the melon was gone. I was awful sore about it too. I noticed some footprints going away from the melon patch over toward the Hinkles who lived on the next farm. I was so sore I could be and suggested to Lloyd that we go and follow those footprints and find who had swiped the melon."

"We followed the prints to a wall dividing our farms and there was the melon half eaten. Say that broke my heart. We started walking back and I was looking down at those footprints. Lloyd was in front of me and he was bare footed. All of a sudden I noticed that his footprints were the same as those we had been following.

"You son-of-a-gun," I said "you swiped that melon yourself."

"Sure I did," he said calmly. "If I hadn't you would have grabbed it."

"Even in those days," Paul concluded, "that kid brother of mine was faster than me. That ought to settle the matter once and for all."

Status of Woman Athlete Depends On Her Own Wish

(By Associated Press) NEW ORLEANS, La., Dec. 23.—It is up to Mildred Babe Didrikson herself whether she turns professional or keeps her present ranking as the outstanding woman amateur athlete—and nobody but herself knows her plans today.

The Texas wonder was cleared of charges of professionalism and reinstated to amateur standing through the registration committee of the Southern Amateur Athletic union yesterday, just after she had announced plans to turn professional.

Lawrence Di Benedetto, chairman of the A. A. U. committee, said the organization had received Miss Didrikson's resignation, but her athletic future, "is up to her" now.

Today, Miss Didrikson was somewhere enroute to Chicago with her sister, Mrs. Esther Elam, and the trip lent credence to the belief she meant just what she said when she announced, before the A. A. U. committee acted finally, that she was tired of the investigation of her status and had accepted professional contracts.

The charges of professionalism were based on an accusation that Miss Didrikson had endorsed an automobile for advertising purposes.

CADETS TO PLAY STIFF SCHEDULE OF GRID GAMES

10 Contests Booked With Teams Representing Ten States

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Dec. 23.—A football game between the United States Military Academy and the University of Illinois was added today to Cleveland's sports program for next fall.

Booked Oct. 21

The game will be played in the Cleveland municipal stadium Oct. 31. It will be the second intercollegiate contest involving a service team to come to this city.

The Navy-Notre Dame game was played in the same stadium last fall, before a crowd of approximately 60,000 persons.

The Army-Illinois combat originally was scheduled for West Point, N. Y., later New York City and Chicago were considered.

(By Associated Press)

WEST POINT, N. Y., Dec. 23.—Ten states—Georgia, Virginia, Delaware, Illinois, Connecticut, Iowa, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Maryland and Indiana, are represented in the opposition Army's 1933 football team will be called upon to face.

10 Games Slated

The schedule of ten games released by Major P. R. Fleming, graduate manager of athletics, yesterday, is one of the hardest in Cadet gridiron history with major games against Illinois, Yale, Harvard, Navy and Notre Dame.

Five games will be played at West Point and five away.

The Schedule

Sept. 30—Mercer of Georgia.
Oct. 7—Virginia Military Inst.
Oct. 14—Delaware.
Oct. 21—Illinois at Cleveland.
Oct. 28—Yale at New Haven.
Nov. 4—Coe of Iowa.
Nov. 11—Harvard at Cambridge.
Nov. 18—Pennsylvania Military college.
Nov. 25—Navy (site not selected).

Alvin Crowder Predicted as Leading Slabster Next Year

BY LES CONKLIN

International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—How about nominating Alvin Crowder as the best pitcher in the American League in the 1932 campaign?

The Washington star didn't figure in the knockout duel that featured Lefty Grove, Charley Ruffing and Vernon Gomez all season and his great work was overshadowed during most of the race by the prominence given to his team mate, Monte Weaver, who Gomez and Wes Ferrell in games won. But a study of the official pitching statistics reveals that the general wound up with a record second to none.

Made Great Finish

Crowder made a Garrison finish to win 26 games, more than any other pitcher in the league. His nearest rival was Grove, who chalked up 25 wins. Gomez was third with 24.

Up until August, Crowder couldn't manage to pitch 500 ball. Then he stepped on the gas, finishing the campaign with fifteen consecutive victories for a total of 26 triumphs against 13 defeats.

Philadelphia was the toughest team in the loop for Crowder, beating him four times out of seven. He broke even against the Yankees, Browns and Red Sox, but held a big edge over the other teams. He had the Indian sign on the White Sox, trimming them eight times in as many starts, and won five out of seven against Detroit.

The General won another distinction by pitching 327 innings, more than any other pitched in the league. In earned runs he was fourth, allowing 3.33 runs per game. He showed excellent control, walking only 77 batters compared with 119 for Tom Bridges of Detroit, 115 for Ruffing, 104 for Ferrell, 112

for Weaver, 105 for Gomez and 79 for Grove.

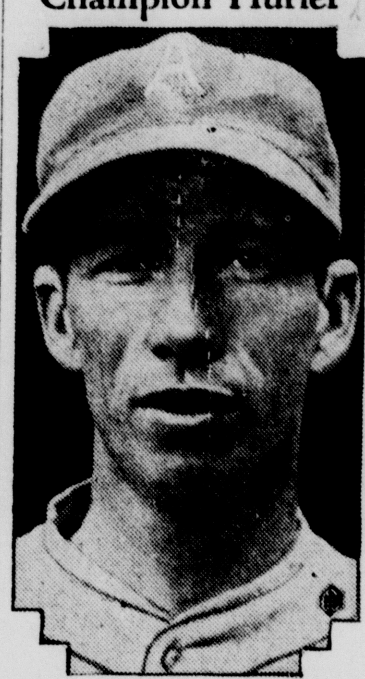

Senators Threaten

If Crowder and Weaver repeat their 1932 efforts, Washington will loom as a strong rival of the Yankees next season. There is little doubt about Crowder's ability to keep up his good work, but capital fans are not so sanguine about Weaver.

Dodgers Keep Staff

NEW YORK—Brooklyn's ball club will not cut its coaching staff. Casey Stengel and Otto Miller will be retained to assist Manager Max Carey of the Dodgers next season.

Champion Hurler

Robert Moses Grove, better known as "Lefty," southpaw pitcher of the Philadelphia Athletics, who for the fourth consecutive year has been named the champion hurler of the American League. Lefty was awarded the championship because of his low earned-run average. He allowed only 2.84 runs per nine-inning game in 1932.

Cobb Selected As Best Player By Veteran Manager

(By Associated Press)

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 23.—Connie Mack, hailed by many baseball observers as the diamond's greatest tactician, marked his 70th birthday today by selecting some "greatests" of his own. They are:

Greatest player—Ty Cobb.
Greatest pitcher—Christy Mathewson.

Greatest managers—Up to 1900, Ned Hanlon of the Baltimore Orioles; after 1900, John McGraw.

Greatest teams—Baltimore Orioles of the 90s; Chicago Cubs, 1906 to 1909; Athletics 1910 to 1914.

JONES DEVELOPS TROJAN OFFENSE

Californians Work Hard As Snow Interferes With Panthers

(By Associated Press)

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 23.—Coach Howard Jones is inclined to believe the defense of the Pittsburgh football team which his Southern Californians met at Pasadena January 2, probably is just as strong as that of the Trojans.

At least he ordered another extended workout today on offensive drill after concentrating on their part of his preparations for the game for two days.

Although the Panthers are considerably lighter on the forward wall than the Trojans, three powerful teams—Army, Notre Dame and Nebraska—worked the ball past the 10-yard line and were held for downs.

Anyway Coach Jones has been using Homer Griffith at fullback in the secret workouts a good share of the time with the idea of strengthening Troy's touchdown punch.

Snow Halts Panthers

TUCSON, ARIZ., Dec. 23.—A change in the weather today made Coach Jack Sutherland of the Pittsburgh Panthers forget his sorrow of leaving the Smoky City and its wintry climate.

Greeted by a snow-covered field on the first day of practice, Sutherland wondered why he had left Pittsburgh to come here to train for the Rose Bowl game Jan. 2, with the University of Southern California.

However, Sutherland was all smiles today as he was able to send his squad through a long workout yesterday afternoon on a dry field.

The head coach of the Panthers indicated he was not interested in the offers of the Los Angeles, San Diego and Redlands, Calif., Chamber of Commerce to provide suitable training fields in those cities.

Pug May Coach

EVANSTON, ILL., Dec. 23.—Pug Renter, Northwestern's 1931 All-American halfback, will probably be engaged as a part-time coach at Northwestern next year.

Schmeling to Meet Baer; Dempsey to Promote Contest

BY HERBERT W. BARKER, Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.—The monopoly Madison Square Garden has enjoyed on prime heavyweight attractions since the days of Tex Rickard was threatened from a formidable quarter today. Tossing his expensive chapeau into the promotional ring, William Harrison Dempsey announced yesterday he had signed Max Schmeling and Max Baer for a 15-round bout some time in June.

Site Not Selected

The site was not specified, but Dempsey said it would be either New York or Chicago.

Other promoters have sought to "buck" the Garden in the past but most had two strikes on them before they went to the plate either because the Garden had the best locations or the best fighters, or both, tied up with air-tight contracts.

Not so with Dempsey. Jack has his fighters, safely signed and through his association with Tim Mara, he will have his choice either of the Polo grounds or the Yankee stadium should he decide to stage the fight here.

Chicago Considered

Chicago, it was understood, is genuinely anxious to stage the fight as a world's fair attraction and probably will have some persuasive arguments for Dempsey's ear.

The Garden, in the meantime, finds itself in a position where it has the heavyweight champion, Jack Sharkey safely under contract, but no outstanding rival for him to meet. Under the terms of the contract, the Garden is obliged to find some one for Sharkey to fight by June 20.

SYNOPSIS

Nevis and Bill Lancaster were supremely happy until Bill became successful selling bonds and they started living beyond their means. Bill enters lavishly to promote business and is constantly on the go. Nevis sees little of him and she longs for the simple life they led when first married. Then Bill meets Olive Blanchard, who tries in vain to alienate his affections. Although Bill sees much of Olive and enjoys her company, he loves Nevis. Nevis, however, believes the affair is serious when she reads a poem which Olive sent to Bill. Piqued, she accepts the attentions of Harry Carter, a prominent architect. Bill is jealous, but when Nevis offers to give up Carter if he does Olive, he refuses. Their relations become strained. Carter tells Nevis he loves her and cannot go on without her. Nevis is stunned when Bill tells her friends, Fluff and Les Waterford, are separating. Then comes news of another divorce in their circle and Nevis, pluming the same end for Bill and herself, is perturbed. Bill realizes Nevis still cares for him when she asks to take her away. Nevis breaks with Carter. Then comes the stock market disaster and Bill loses heavily. Nevis tells Bill he must not take a position Olive has offered him. Bill assures Nevis he was never unfaithful to her. She states they must go away and begin again.

CHAPTER XVI

"You'll leave me?" he said, paralyzed with incredulity. "Yes, I won't," she sobbed, "live with you, even loving you under these circumstances. It isn't marriage. It isn't anything. We've got to get away from it and take stock of ourselves." Bill said gently: "Here, hold on. I'll do anything you say, of course. I love you. . . . He was white with shock. Nevis and Carter? Not quite but almost. . . . Ever, next time? Himself and Olive. . . . not quite but almost. . . . Ever, next time. Almost, easy enough, this time. He was shaken, as shaken as if, walking along a sunny road, he had suddenly come upon a rattlesnake, a precipice, anything dangerous, anything that menaced his next light-hearted step. "I'll do anything," he repeated. "Darling, don't cry so. But what can I do?"

She said, drying her eyes: "I went up to town this morning and saw Aunt Margaret. Uncle Walter will get you a job on the sugar plantation, in Porto Rico. We can turn this house over to the Mannings and sail, as soon as possible. I talked it all over with her—and with him. There won't be much money. A hundred and twenty-five a month, to start. But we'll have our house free and our fuel and light and all that. Expenses will be low. And there's a chance, for a big job here in the New York end, if you learn the business down there. You're an engineer," she said. "You'll learn. And we'll be getting away from everything we have ever known. Oh, I know we could go back home, you could go into business with your uncle and father. But well be caught in a little circle again. We'd be too near New York. Near enough to run down when we got bored or restless. I want to get away. Clear away. I want to be with you in a place where we'll have no one to depend upon but ourselves. I made up my mind to this some time ago. I was waiting for a chance to tell you. Now I have the chance."

She rose and stood beside him. His hands were clasped between his knees and he looked up at her, blond brows knitted, his face grave, a little white. She said, steadily: "Either you take this job and me, Bill, or you can do anything else you want. But it will be without me. I—I think this is our chance to make something real of our marriage. Something vital. To get away from all the things that have hurt it for me, to get away from the mistakes we've both made." She said: "Make up your mind." She asked: "Are you game?"

He rose and took her in his arms. He answered, with a ghost of his old grin: "I love you. I think you're mad. But I can't get on without you. I'm game, all right," said Bill. "I don't know a damn thing about the sugar business. You put it in your coffee," said Bill, grinning at his wife's uncle by marriage, "and your wife won't let you have three lumps and that's that." He leaned back in a Louis Quinze chair and regarded Walter Mason amiably. "I started out to make lead pipes, then I sold bonds, now I'm going into the sugar racket—which is what a lot of bond salesmen do, come to think of it."

"You'll learn," said Walter Mason, tall and stooped and shaggy of hair and eyebrow. "I'm not worried." He passed a box of cigarettes to Bill and glanced over, across the room, where his wife was in animated conversation with her niece. "The ladies appear to be in conference," said Mason, "and look as if they were putting something over on us."

Westlyne united in giving the Lancasters a large farewell party. Frances Carlyle was there; but no Dirk; neither of the Waterfords were present, of course; nor was Harry Carter, who had gone abroad to join his wife. But Della and Mort were hosts and there were people down from town as well as the other Westlynes; and the Mannings, who had returned and with cheers of gratitude were moving into their house a day or so after the Lancasters sailed. "A roof and no rent," said Manning thankfully. "Looks pretty good to me as long as you won't buy the shack."

"I couldn't," responded Bill gaily. "buy a dog-kennel, much less a dog." Mr. Burton said: "You needn't explain. Sam's talked to me. Perhaps you are being sensible. There'll be a job for you when you come back, if you do, and want it." He added to Sam: "It's just as well . . . we have to cut down expenses and it will take more than personality to sell even gilt-edged bonds for a while." He added that he understood that statistically the average of eight-thousand-dollar-per-bond buyer had been reduced to three; and would go lower.

Westlyne was united in proclaiming that the Lancasters had gone haywire. . . . snakes, malaria and lord knows what said Westlyne, and Bill was doing so well. Or is it true he dropped all he had and more in the market? Well, Godspeed, and we'll miss them, said Westlyne.

Mort said thoughtfully: "You may be right. I don't know," and Della said, alone with Nevis: "I don't know what it's all about but I seem to perceive monkey wrenches. Well you know what you're doing. I'm for you." More and Della, Sam Burton and Daisy Howard, who had come from Nevis' home town to New York and within a few months had succeeded in reducing Sam to an abject anorakous mass of sentimentality, saw them off on one of the very de luxe boats. The sugar company had provided passage but Bill had stated firmly: "Not so hot. Or rather too hot. Over the kitchen. We'll chuck what little cash we have left into a really decent cabin and bath."

"It's for such a short time," expostulated Nevis. "It doesn't matter. Why travel like cattle? Blow the last cent I have, and arrive in comfort and style. Not knowing what's ahead of us, I propose to provide some really Ritz-Carlton baked funeral meats," said Bill.

Their furniture was stored; the cars sold for a couple of popular songs and the house was in the hands of its original owners. Nevis carried a little, wandering about it for the last time. Hari and Kari had returned to whatever was their mysterious private life. The radio had been sold—to Hari, no less, a dicker having been made with him which involved the radio and certain wages due. Bill had a few hundreds in the bank and the one bond he had managed to buy, somewhat depreciated in value, Sam presented them with a bottle of champagne. "There's only one way," said Sam, "to drown sweet sorrow."

The passage was rough. People were magnificently sick. Not Bill, who at all times enjoyed superb health and a sense of balance; not Nevis, flying to the comparative privacy of their blue-brocaded cabin with its twin beds and tiled bath, which had any amount of trick showers labelled Hot and Cold and Salt and Fresh. But they made few contacts on the boat. Most of the people traveling down that December were sugar people returning from business or vacation trips, or parties of tourists, or dark, Spanish-speaking persons with large, voraciously appetized and expensively seafaring families. At San Juan they went for the night, to the very lovely hotel which dreams, by the sea, in its own gardens. Bill said, eyeing the statement the next morning: "Say it ain't true. We haven't left New York. Not by all accounts!"

And Bill's interview with the representative of the sugar company in San Juan they made a perfectly gayhearted tour of the city, the fortifications and suburbs, returning to the boat that night. Nevis said: "It's gorgeous, isn't it? . . . ?" and her color-loving little soul bathed itself in the primitive colors of sky and water, the bright painted houses, the flowers, the general stage setting effect of the city. Bill said: "Maybe, but it's too damned hot." He mopped his brow. "Merry Xmas," he said, "can you imagine it?"

Brown, naked, pot-bellied babies, tumbling over each other on the streets. Narrow streets, crowded shops, beggars. Open faced houses, cross sections of family life, entertaining or embarrassing according to your point of view. Resident Americans recognizable by their curious complexions and their Palm Beach suits and their languors; and visiting Americans, equally recognizable by their briskness, their desire to spend money, their incessant chatter and their smart clothes. Bill ran into a class-mate and his wife, who were honeymooning. "On," said the wife, fluently, "so you're going to live here! How perfectly fascinating. How I envy you!"

Bill said: "You must," without rancor. Frank Garfield had inherited a couple of million dollars and on their return from the West Indies he and his wife would move into a Park Avenue duplex. "Palm trees," said Nevis as they went to the boat, "aren't they marvelous. I wonder if I'll ever tire of them!" The boat took them to Ponce. Bill said: "I understand there's a swell motor road from San Juan to Ponce. . . . we'll have to take the trip, some day."

In Ponce there were more conferences with the company representatives and a day or two in the town, in the blue painted, outside-stairway house maintained by the company for distinguished guests and arriving employees. There, with the attendant offices of a slim, non-English-speaking man of all work, Nevis and Bill lived for a few days. Nevis was perfectly happy. Life seemed to her, pretty simple, in the tropics. Bill, meeting some of his fellow employees reported them good guys. And grapefruit was a dream and avacados a staple of diet and pineapples something too good to be true. There was a curious shortage of such accustomed articles as cream and the like but it didn't matter, did it? And the mosquito nets over the beds which Nevis had found delightful at first sight proved more useful than ornamental. And it was very hot.

The bathroom of the guest house was an enormous affair with a large sunken bath. How marvelous! said Nevis. Only, there wasn't any hot water. What a little hot water between friends?

Your Christmas Turkey

This is to call your attention to the fact that we have bought for hundreds of Christmas dinners the finest turkeys we could locate. We have them—plump and tender—in all weights, both gobblers and hens. We ask that you let us have your order as early as possible so that we can reserve for you the bird that will meet your needs.

A FEW WORDS ABOUT TURKEYS

You all know that there were millions of turkeys not sold on Thanksgiving. These turkeys have been frozen and will be sold on Christmas at any old price. There were millions of turkeys dry picked down in Texas and with the insides left in them they were loaded in freight cars and shipped North. They will be sold for Christmas. True enough these Turkeys will be sold but they won't be sold at Simon Brothers' Market.

It is true that our price will not compare with the price of turkeys that have been frozen and lying around for months or with the price of turkeys that were dry picked down in Texas and shipped in, but our prices will be the lowest for fresh killed, fresh dressed turkeys and other poultry.

TODAY'S RADIO PROGRAMS

Nearly every week comes a further indication that the 15-minute programs on the networks have reached, if not passed, their heyday. Particularly is this true of the "personality" singers.

The latest is the announcement by WJZ-NBC that it intends to combine the singing of Alice Joy, contralto and that of the Rollickers quartet into a half-hour period which also will include Hugo Mariani's orchestra.

The new arrangement is to be put into effect next Wednesday night, with three 30-minute broadcasts a week.

Ceremonies at the opening of the first unit of Rockefeller Center will go on the air Tuesday night. There will be three transmissions, on WJZ-NBC at 7:45 and 9:30 and on WEAF-NBC at 11 from the lobby, the stage or the broadcast studio of Radio City music hall.

The Pickens sisters are tuning up to sing in Paul Whiteman's rhythmic concert via WJZ-NBC on Sunday. All 11 of Guy Lombardo's musicians are to be lined up before the microphone for speaking parts in Bob Tarlinton's Meet the Artist's program Tuesday afternoon.

Try These Tonight

WEAF-NBC—7:15 — Harmonica Rascals; 8 — Orchestra and Cavaliers; 9:30—Mrs. P. D. Roosevelt; 10—Al Jolson; 12:15—Fred Waring's Pennsylvanians.

WABC-CBS—8:30—News drama; 9:30—Morton Downey; 10:30—Columbia Revue; 12—Ben Pollack's orchestra.

WJZ-NBC—7:30—Charlie Chan; 8:45—Howard Thurston, magician; 9:30—Eddie and Ralph; 12:30—Gus Van and Joe Furst's orchestra.

Saturday High Spots

WEAF-NBC—10:30 a. m.—Christmas Carol service from King's college, Cambridge, Eng.; 12:45 p. m.—Ringling of the German bell at Cologne, Germany, followed by Children's choir; 1—Oratorio, "Star in the East;" 2—Christmas on Ellis Island; 5—Lighting of community Christmas tree in Washington, (also WABC-CBS).

WABC-CBS—1:30 — National Press Club Christmas dinner, speaker Sen. Borah (also WJZ-NBC); 4
